School board's view of boy with AIDS outrages mother

By Jack C. Ventimiglia
Executive editor

GRANITE CITY — The "outrageous" treatment of a 7-year-old boy from Belleville who has AIDS and hemophilia angers his mother and a Granite City woman.

"He's all isolated," his mother said Wednesday after asking not to be identified. "He cries, 'Mom, I don't have anybody to play with.'"

The Belleville District 118 Board of Education's decision to educate the child at home is wrong, she said.

"They've provided home tutoring. I consider it inadequate because the most important part of any child's education is socialization and they've taken that away from him," she said.

from school, said a close friend of the family, Tammie Robertson, of Granite City. Her son, Jason Robertson, 6, is a hemophiliac with AIDS Related Complex.

"There's no reason the child can't be in school," Tammie said Wednesday. "They have no medical basis to take him out of school."

The District 118 Board of Education barred the 7-year-old boy from Jefferson School, 1400 N. Charles, Belleville, District 118 Superintendent Joe Cipri said Wednesday that the board acted in the child's behalf.

Cipri said that because the boy's immunity system has been affected by the disease, the boy would be at risk of severe effects if he caught any of the normal childhood diseases other school children might give him. Rather than risk the child's health, the board decided to educate him in his home, Cipri said.

"We're talking about kids who have AIDS," Tammie said. "We're talking about kids whose days are numbered. They need to have a life. They need to have some fun."

Tammie said she thinks the Belleville woman should sue District 118.

"I'm saying I would sue," Tammie said. "They haven't treated her like this. Granite City has done a much better job of working with me with Jason than Belleville has with her."

The Belleville mother warned that District 118 should put her boy in school.

"And if they don't, they'll have to deal with the consequence," she said, but declined to elaborate.

"We haven't gone public yet."

Tammie's son is taught at home by a Granite City teacher. She said the tutor is acceptable, but next year she may want Jason in school because he is missing the educational opportunities of field trips and social interaction with other children.

Jason told me how unhappy he was when my friend's little girl came to our house with a bag of Christmas goodies she got at school," Tammie said.

Village off hook for development bonds

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

PONTIAC BEACH — Developer Stan Lucas will not ask the village to issue more than $3 million in General Obligation Bonds for Chouteau Trace I, a large-scale development being planned for the west side of Illinois 111 and south of Interstate 270.

"It's my understanding the village will have no part in it," Lucas said Tuesday. "So far as I know right now, there will be only IRBs (Industrial Revenue Bonds) issued. The bond people are still working on it."

"There is the Special Service and the TIF (Tax Increment Financing) District, but only within that 68-acre tract of ground (Chouteau Trace I)," Lucas said. "There will be no General Obligation Bond action on it."

Development of the property will go ahead, said Lucas.

Neither the bonds nor the Chouteau Trace project were discussed at Tuesday's village board meeting.

"I heard he (Lucas) did withdraw the bond issue ordinance, maybe to rewrite it and remove that part about the General Obligation Bonds," said Trustee Don Reed.

Issuance of municipal bonds secured by the assessed valuation of the property itself, with the collateral being the property inside the TIF District, may be proposed, Reed said.

19 days left for BAC bill to be signed

By Jack C. Ventimiglia
Executive editor

GRANITE CITY — Nineteen days remain for Gov. James Thompson to act on the Belleville Area College bill. If he does not act, the measure becomes law.

Spokespersons in the governor's office said Tuesday he has not acted on House Bill 143, which would allow a change in how BAC trustees are elected.

The bill's Senate sponsor, Sam Vadala, D-Edwardsville, said Wednesday he has taken his endorsement of the measure to the governor.

The bill's author and House sponsor, Sam Wolf, D-Granite City, said Wednesday that he believes its easy passage in the House and Senate, and support letters for it from district residents, will prompt the governor to sign it.

The bill would give voters in the BAC District an alternative to at-large elections for choosing BAC Board of Trustees members. It would allow the district to be divided into subdistricts of about equal population so that a trustee could be elected from each subdistrict.

"There is definitely a need for this bill," Wolf said.

With a concentration of voters from Belleville, St. Clair County has often elected all seven members to the board. The district is comprised of eight counties.

In June, when the bill floundered in the Senate, it was amended by Vadala and approved, 50-4. In July, the amended version went back to the House and passed, 105-3.

MADISON — Service Employees International Local 98, representing custodians in School District 12, reached agreement with the School Board and signed a contract providing pay increases of 4, 5 and 6 percent over the next three years.

The contract, for 13 employees, will cost the district an extra $10,816 in the first year, another $14,060 for the second year and $17,846 in the third year, said Dolores Folkerts, assistant to the superintendent.

A contract with Madison Federation of Teachers Local 763, ratified in August, will cost the district a total of $221,098 over its three-year span.

Partney outlines plan for Logan schools

By Bill Bagby
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — A call to use two vacant District 9 schools was addressed Tuesday to the School Board by 4th Ward Alderman Dan Partney.

Partney asked the board to consider converting the old Logan Elementary School, 2419 Logan Ave. into a youth center and making the new Logan School, 2400 W. 25th St., a senior citizens center.

The old Logan School is empty and the new building is used for storage.

The city could buy the old Logan building for a $1. Partney suggested, and turn it over to the Granite City Council of Youth for a youth center.

The youth council, formed by Mayor Von Dee Cruse, has held several dances to raise funds for a center.

Board member Dewey Melton, who has been active with the youth committee, said there's a "clear need" for a youth center. He said some of the youth have shown interest in utilizing the closed Nanticoke Elementary School, 1620 Pontoon Road, as a center.

The city is lacking a youth center, said board secretary Jo Ann Macios.

"It's something we've lacked for a long time," she said.

For use of the new Logan School, Partney said, the city could enter into a lease with the district. The building could then through the Granite City Township Senior Citizen Advisory Committee, also formed by Cruse.

A needs assessment study presented to the committee in October 1986 by Ruth Ikko, a SIUE student, suggested establishing a multi-purpose senior center, along with a senior information and referral office. The office opened in March.

be converted into a senior center.

Partney said classrooms could be used for individual meeting rooms by senior groups and clubs. The school's gymnasium and stage could be used for plays and games, he said, and the kitchen could be utilized for the senior meal program.

The building would be easily accessible for seniors, Partney said, because it's built on one level.

"It's just a perfect building for something like this," he said.

Partney said he talked to Superintendent Gib Walmsley who said the new Logan School may not be used again for at least 10 years. The school was closed in 1983.

Out-of-town sewage coming to city

By Dave Gosnell
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Approval by Metro East Sanitary District Director Shang Greathouse has paved the way for construction of a sewer line that will divert sewage treatment from MESD's East St. Louis Lansdowne plant to the Granite City treatment plant.

Greathouse signed an agreement on Friday that awarded a $1.8 million contract to C.D. Peters Construction Co. of Granite City, to build a 24-inch force main from the Lansdowne treatment plant in East St. Louis to the Granite City plant.

The line will run through Venice and Brooklyn to Granite City, C.D. Peters was the low bidder.

An agreement was also signed that named Korte-Plocher Construction Co., of Highland, as the contractor to build lift stations at Lansdowne and Venice that will accommodate the new line.

Shang Greathouse

Korte-Plocher was the low bidder for the lift station project at $3 million.

The project will eventually enable the Lansdowne treatment plant to be shut down. Lansdowne is the only treatment plant operated by MESD. Ratepayers include residents of Madison, Venice, Brooklyn, National City and about half of East St. Louis.

By diverting sanitary sewer treatment to the Granite City plant, MESD will meet federal Environmental Protection Agency pollution standards.

The Lansdowne plant does not meet EPA pollution standards for treating water prior to placing it in the Mississippi River.

Greathouse said the district had two options to meet EPA regulations — renovate the Lansdowne plant at a cost of $11 million or divert to Granite City's plant at a cost of $5 million.

"I'll be glad to shut that (Lansdowne) down. We are the only ones not in the Granite City treatment plant yet," Greathouse said.

With MESD customers eventually coming into the Granite City treatment system, most area communities will either be in the Granite City system or the new American Bottoms treatment plant in Sauget. Glen Carbon recently linked up with the Granite City plant.

Greathouse said the old sewer lines and pump stations used for the Lansdowne plant are too small for use with the Granite City plant.

The MESD project will begin in about a month and will be completed by next year.

Mother of AIDS victim faces difficult choice

Tammy Robertson's task as the mother of a child with AIDS Related Complex could get tougher if she enrolls him in school next year.

Her 6-year-old son, Jason, is a hemophiliac, meaning that before he was diagnosed as having ARC, she had to be concerned about him falling and possibly bleeding to death. Since being infected with the AIDS virus, her concern for his survival has increased.

But Jason is more than a hemophiliac or an ARC victim. He's a little boy. He wants to play with children his own age, go outdoors and do the things other 6-year-olds do.

Tammy said that before he was diagnosed as having ARC, she had friends and neighbors visit. Jason met people, other children. There are few visitors these days.

Jason wants to be in school and perhaps needs to be, Tammy said, but she took him out of school last year and has kept it that way. She remembers that one day while walking home from school he fell and cut himself. But she also wants him to enjoy life while he can.

And so she ponders the value of school versus Jason's safety. She also wonders about Granite City. Its citizens could react to Jason as some parents in Belleville have reacted to a boy who has AIDS in that district.

Parents in Belleville are afraid their children could get AIDS from a 7-year-old boy. They want the boy kept out of school and the school board there has agreed.

The hysteria caused by AIDS has a basis. The disease is always fatal and the number of infected persons increases daily. But the disease doesn't jump like a bug. Transmission from one child to another is not likely. Still, the fear remains and rather than learn the facts about AIDS, there are perhaps some among us who'd rather take an inquisitorial approach.

That would hurt Jason and his family. Tammy knows it. Even so, she will do what she believes is best for her child.

Tammy's choice — whatever it is, even she may be second-guessing.

Trend to county collection

"The township collector is an outdated political post which nearly the entire state has abandoned in favor of the more efficient county-collector-only arrangement."

This is the view of Madison County Treasurer Mick Henkhaus, who is not critical of the collectors but of the office he holds. He foresees savings ($23,000 in Edwardsville alone) if Granite City, Venice, Nameoki and Edwardsville townships join the other 20 in delegating the task to him. Statewide, only 50 of the 1,436 townships still collect.

Certainly, Henkhaus and other local county officials deserve praise for their mid-1980s efforts. Collection was delayed this year by farmland reassessments, but the officials' task force had made good progress in speeding up the billing and collection. Henkhaus also has expedited forwarding of newly collected funds to the various taxing bodies, reducing the interval from 19 days in 1982 to six days in 1986.

Looking back several decades, it was understandable that many townships served as collectors. Counties were slow to disburse funds, meanwhile investing them for the county; while counties are an important level of government, they represent only one slice of the real estate tax "pie."

With schools, cities and others forced to borrow due to lack of cash, the flow of tax dollars seemed to be working against them; but if a township was able to collect and distribute rapidly, this problem could be eased.

Fortunately, county collection staffs in Madison County and elsewhere have taken pride in recent years in carrying out their work faster. For example, Henkhaus' four allocations of receipts in 1987 already have amounted to more than $6 million.

Unpaid first installments must be sent to the county treasurer by Sept. 14; second installments to him are due Nov. 16. The bills encourage mailing taxes to the county at 101 Purcell St., Edwardsville, but in the four collecting towns the bills explain that Illinois law makes those towns responsible for collection through Aug. 31.

Next year, there is hope the bills can be sent out during the spring, enabling the tax cycle to be completed in the summer, as was visualized by lawmakers. Whether there should be further centralization at the county level can be evaluated by legislators on its merits; a county referendum on the issue also could be held.

Quad area studies merger

Confusion over which is the Quad City Area of Illinois may be about to end. In addition to the local community — Granite City, Madison, Venice, Pontoon Beach and Mitchell — the same descriptive phrase is used by Rock Island, Moline, East Moline, Milan, Silvis, Carbon Cliff, Hampton and Coal Valley.

The latter group is talking about merging but, alas, cannot consider including its other major component, Davenport, which is on the west bank of the Mississippi River, in Iowa, of all places.

Merged or not, the Moline, etc., area tops our Quad's population; the proposed new city would have 170,000 souls, second in size (in this state) only to Chicago. But our local region, Metro East, would remain Illinois' largest urban-suburban area outside the Chicago region.

IP 'facts' in dispute

To the editor:
Illinois Power should get together on what kind of information they are giving consumers after each rate hike.

I attended and testified at most of the meetings the past 10 years. Despite this fact, rate increases were granted. I recorded the meetings, saved the news paper articles and listened to every word.

In 1982, we were informed by a former service area manager that consumers are paying now for a nuclear plant that was still under construction. Eighty percent of the increase would be going toward the construction work in progress (CWIP), while the remaining 20 percent would cover the company's rising cost.

Allowing businesses to include CWIP in a rate base is a common practice of the ICC, he said.

By using CWIP, the cost to the consumer is reduced because Illinois Power will have to borrow less money, meaning there is less interest to pay, it was said.

The manager went on to say that experts have determined that paying for the construction of the nuclear plant then would be cheaper for the consumer than if they paid for it after the work was completed.

Now, seven years later, another service area manager wants to set the record straight by telling us their stockholders have been footing the entire bill for the construction of the Clinton nuclear plant.

Not one cent of our customers' money has been spent for labor and material to build Clinton, he said; our customers have been asked only to pay the interest charges on the money borrowed for the plant's construction.

Are we hearing double talk or what? We were informed at the April 1985 rate hike hearing by our state representatives that Illinois Power doesn't appear to have a financial problem, at least as far as its stockholders are concerned.

I was told Illinois Power's annual report shows IP earned a net income of $235 million in 1984 and paid a cash dividend of $165 million to its stockholders.

The more this project in Clinton costs, the more money the IP stockholders make, provided however that the construction costs are passed on to the consumer, which for the past five years they have, they stated.

I just wanted to set the record straight and if I need to be corrected on this subject, I'll be corrected and appreciate it.

In the meantime, it's good to know that our hometown paper, the Press-Record/Journal, stands up to its statement of purpose which reads "We dedicate ourselves to the public, holding its welfare in highest regard and standing firmly in opposition to any who would oppose it."

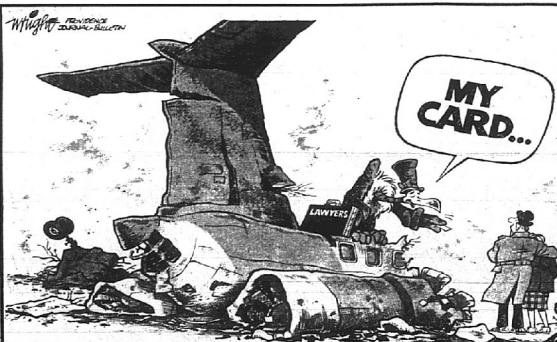

My own ins and outs with our paper make me a true believer of that statement.

There's hope for ethanol

The automotive industry ever since the first Henry Ford has known that alcohol is a better car fuel than gasoline.

Alcohol made from corn — ethanol — is a fuel extender and an octane enhancer. Your car runs better with a 10 percent mix of alcohol in the gas tank.

At the same time we are reducing pollution from carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons.

Enough alcohol in our cars and we will no longer be at the mercy of Mideast oil producers.

Our farmers will have a new non-food use for their corn.

Thus, with conversion to ethanol car fuel, we will reduce our foreign trade imbalance, reduce pollution and reduce the cost of farm subsidies.

Eight years ago alcohol fuel was available almost nowhere. Today it has won an 8 percent share of the entire motor fuel market and in some states that is as much as 20 or 30 percent.

The bureaucracy moves tediously, agonizingly slowly — yet, the Environmental Protection Agency is urging states to adopt alternative fuels to meet air quality standards.

The General Services Administration is asking the automotive industry to produce 5,000 "flexible fuel" vehicles within the next year.

The Urban Mass Transportation Administration has authorized more use of ethanol-fueled buses.

Vice President George Bush has been a big help.

The presidential task force he heads has accelerated the effort.

Annual ethanol production is up from 20 million gallons to 750 million gallons.

And from an economic point of view there are a variety of fringe benefits.

Fuel alcohol consumed 250 million bushels of corn last year.

When corn is used to make alcohol, only the starch is utilized. This leaves the rest of the grain — protein and edible oils — for other purposes such as food for people and feed for cattle.

Gasoline now costs $1 a gallon and that price is rising.

Ethanol now costs $1.25 a gallon, and that cost is coming down.

Any day now it will be cheaper to drive a car on alcohol than on gasoline.

More work in state, nation

By David Rocks

P-R/J Washington bureau

WASHINGTON — Illinois' unemployment rate fell by three-tenths of 1 percent last month, but stood one point higher than the national rate, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported Friday.

The state's seasonally-adjusted civilian unemployment rate dropped 7 percent in August from July's rate of 7.3 percent. Nationwide, the rate remained steady at 6 percent.

Last month's drop in Illinois unemployment marks an over-year decrease of 1.1 percent from the 8.1 percent rate of August 1986.

The national rate fell 0.8 percent, from 6.8 percent last year.

The seasonally-adjusted figures show 113,081,000 people working nationwide, about three million more than in August 1986. In Illinois, 5,409,000 workers are bringing home a paycheck, about 50,000 more than one year earlier.

Granite City police

Burglar gets saw, rings

Frank Sanders, 2528 Circle Drive, reported Sept. 2 that someone forced open his garage door and took a chain saw and assorted tools. The door of his home also was forced open and an intruder took a video cassette recorder and tapes, a metal box with personal papers, a diamond wedding ring set, gold chains, and other jewelry and electronic equipment.

Auto strikes light pole after lout enters car

A woman and two children were injured when their car struck an Illinois Power Co. pole at 1:32 p.m. Sept. 5 after a lout flew in a car window, causing the woman to lose control of the auto.

Driver Gail D. Baker, 33, and two of her passengers, Carrie Baker, 8, and Aaron Baker, 11, all of 1209 Rhodes St., were traveling east on Illinois 182 near Natooki Road when the accident occurred.

$800 Bicycle stolen

David Buppert, 3029 Buxton Ave., reported Sept. 6 that his bicycle and accessories, valued at $800, were taken from his home.

White, maroon car taken

Jack Ruebel, St. Louis, told police Sept. 7 that his 1982 white-over-maroon Oldsmobile auto was taken Aug. 31 from the Granite City Steel parking lot at 16th Street and Madison Avenue.

Vandal damages auto

Paint remover was poured down the passenger side of the car of Sally Stevens, 2015 Delmar Ave., Apt. A, about 5:54 a.m. Sept. 7. Police are investigating.

3 arrested after store reports 3 TV sets gone

Two adults and a child were arrested for retail theft Sept. 4 after a K mart security guard told the store three persons had left the store's lot with three television sets.

Arrested were Derek S. Bradley, 21, and Vayana Bradley, 22, both of 638 Broadway, Venice, and a 14-year-old girl.

The guard said he saw three people leave the store with three 19-inch, black-and-white sets, but mistook layaway papers for contract-agreement papers.

When he learned the sets were to remain in the store pending payment, he said he spoke to the three at their car, but they left. Patrolmen stopped the car at 20th Street and Niedringhaus Avenue. The two adults were released on $102 cash bail each and the juvenile was released on $52 cash bail.

Rings taken from home

About $500 in jewelry was taken from the home of Evonne Garnett, 2316 Lincoln Ave., on Sept. 6. Discovered missing were a gold wedding ring set, valued at $150, a gold and diamond ring, valued at $200, and a $200 friendship ring.

Cash, food stamps taken

Judy Johnson, 1005 Kirkpatrick Homes, reported that $80 cash and $130 in food stamps were taken from her purse at her apartment Sept. 7.

Booked for trespassing

Ronald L. Gilleland, 18, of 116 Wilson Park Lane, was booked for battery and trespassing Sept. 7 after he allegedly returned to his parents' home after they had requested he leave. Gilleland returned and allegedly struck his father in the face in a dispute concerning tools.

Burglar takes TV, oven

Madison man sentenced to 2 years in prison

A Madison man was sentenced Aug. 31 to two years in prison on a count of aggravated battery.

Antoine J. Shipp, 22, of 134 Garcesse Homes pleaded guilty to the charge the same day and was sentenced by Madison County Associate Judge Charles Romani Jr. Shipp was also ordered to pay $50 court costs.

A charge of residential burglary was dismissed by Romani.

The charge was filed July 14 following an investigation by Madison authorities.

Sentenced to jail term

Doris A. Reed, 40, of East St. Louis pleaded guilty and was sentenced Aug. 5 on a charge of retail theft of more than $150 value.

Madison County Circuit Judge Philip Rarick sentenced Reed to six months in the county jail and two years of probation and ordered her to pay $95 court costs.

The charge was filed May 13 after an investigation by Granite City Police.

EDWARDSVILLE — The marriages of three Quad City Area couples have been dissolved by the Third Circuit Court.

Police chase car down residential streets Friday

A driver led police in a high-speed chase in a residential area near school children waiting for a bus and forced oncoming cars off the road at 8:10 a.m. Friday. The chase ended in the 2100 block of Monroe Street.

Gene H. Arnett, 29, of 2135 Monroe, was charged with reckless driving, fleeing and attempting to elude police, having no valid operator's license, and speeding.

A patrolman alleged clocking Arnett going 53 mph at E. 23rd and August streets, a 30 mph zone. The patrolman gave chase and was joined by other squad cars as Arnett allegedly speeded up to 60 mph as he drove on 21st, 22nd and Monroe streets and Lee Avenue.

Arnett was released on $202 cash bail. The car he was driving had been borrowed from an Alton resident.

State Police now have official flag

Illinois State Police have begun displaying a department flag.

State Police Director Jeremy D. Margolis said Trooper Roger Fox, District 20 public information officer, designed the flag that has become the department's official banner.

The flag is a facsimile of the emblem and stripes which are found on the sides of marked state police cars. It will stand with the United States and State of Illinois flags on appropriate occasions.

Fox joined the State Police in 1977 and has served as the District 20 information officer since 1982. He lives in Pittsfield with his wife, Karen, and two children.

Fox has been presented a State Police flag by Superintendent Laimitus A. Norgelens.

Caughran was charged with unlawful use of a weapon and possession of a firearm without the required firearm owner identification card. He was released on a notice to appear in the Granite City Court on Oct. 2.

Father Mank leads Deanery

SPRINGFIELD — Father Virgil Mank, pastor of St. Cecilia Parish in Glen Carbon, formerly of St. Elizabeth, Granite City, was named the dean of the Alton Deanery for a five-year term effective Sept. 1.

Bishop Daniel L. Ryan made the appointment in a decree dated Aug. 23. Father Mank replaced Msgr. James Suddes, who retired in June. The Alton Deanery includes all parishes in Madison and Bond counties, and is one of seven deaneries in the Springfield diocese.

The role of dean involves administrative duties and pastoral duties that include the entire deanery.

"Your appointment gives all of us occasion to reflect prayerfully upon that ministry (of dean)," Bishop Ryan said in his letter to Father Mank.

The bishop said he wanted to emphasize the "pastoral" role which the dean has in the formation of effective and operative deanery pastoral councils throughout the diocese. These councils are so important in the life of our diocesan church, I know you, Virgil, will place great priority on assisting and leading the Alton Deanery Pastoral Council.

Philip Phillips 3:14 "I press toward this mark, for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."

Everything in God's creation is in forward motion. This universe, nature, and man. We know what would happen to our planet if forward motion stopped. Disaster! Believe it or not, man too is heading for trouble when his forward motion is stopped. Whatever he hands us, we can't give up. We cannot dwell on past failures. We must keep pressing forward.

Remember that God is on your side. And with God on your side, He will never leave you nor forsake you.

There is a prize for those who keep pressing on. A reward for faithful service. Whosoever liveth and believeth in Him shall never perish, but have everlasting life. Why not start forward for God today?

Recently a 17-year old girl called this office with a question regarding custody. She indicated that her parents had been divorced in Illinois three years earlier, and that her mother had obtained custody in the dissolution proceedings. She lived with her mother in Illinois, but she was visiting with her father for the summer in this area. She wished to remain with her father for her senior year in high school.

The question frequently arises as to whether a teenage child can remain with the non-custodial parent if the custodial parent does not agree to this living arrangement. In the case noted above, the girl wished to stay with her father, and the father also wanted his daughter with him. The mother, however, refused to consent to this informal change of custody. The girl posed the question as to whether she or the father could get in trouble if she simply did not return to Oregon for her senior year in high school.

If the father in this situation wished to change custody, he would have to return to court to seek a modification of the original judgment of dissolution. In a case of this nature, if the court felt it was in the best interest of the child to remain with the father, the original divorce decree could be modified. If the father allowed the daughter to live with him without returning to court, the mother could attempt to hold the father in contempt of court. A judge could sentence a non-custodial parent to a jail term for refusing to return the child to the custodial parent without benefit of a court order.

It should be noted that the parties can agree to a change of custody in a situation such as the one described above. There may be no need for a hearing if the parties reach an agreement. If the parties agreed it was best for the 17-year old to remain with her father, the judge would probably sign a court order modifying the original decree. By returning to court to have the original judgment of custody modified, the father would ensure that he would never be held in contempt of court for violating the original decree. In addition, the court could also modify the father's original child support obligation if it was decided the child should live with him.

Aids Belleville schools won't let victim in class

said. When Jason saw the candy, Tammy said, he turned out the room saying he didn't get to have any fun.

"He begs me to send him to school. He said, 'Mom, tell them I won't eat off their dishes, that I'll eat out of my lunchbox every day.'"

Tammy also opposes a District 118 policy that requires all hemophiliacs to prove they do not have AIDS.

Cipri said the board learned that 90 percent of all hemophiliacs have the AIDS virus. Each student with AIDS will be individually handled, but he said the board has to have complete health information to determine how to react.

Rather than single out hemophiliacs, all district employees and especially anyone who has had a blood transfusion, including District 118 board members, should have to meet the same health requirements, Tammy said.

"What about teachers who are bisexual and homosexual? Don't tell me there aren't any. What about kids who've been in accidents and got a transfusion? They're excluding one group (hemophiliacs) and that's not right," Tammy said.

Hemophilia affects more than 230 metropolitan area residents. A spokesperson for the National Center for Disease Control, Atlanta, said more than 90 percent of Factor B hemophiliacs and more than 52 percent of Factor B hemophiliacs test positive for the AIDS virus. More than 70 percent of the hemophilia population is in the Factor A category.

The Department of Public Health notes four ways in which AIDS is spread: blood transfusions, through which most hemophiliacs contracted the disease prior to 1985 when screening nearly eliminated this form of transmission; vaginal, anal or oral sexual intercourse involving an infected partner; blood-to-blood contact, as from sharing hypodermic needles; and women infected with the virus can pass it to their unborn children, or through breast feeding.

A case of AIDS is defined as a clinical diagnosis of one of the specific infectious diseases or cancers associated with AIDS, according to the Illinois Department of Public Health.

Tammy said the Belleville boy got an AIDS related disease, cryptosporidiosis, a protozoan infection that usually causes diarrhea and can lead to dehydration and malnutrition. She said he is no longer displaying symptoms of cryptosporidiosis.

completed in about 18 months. Greathouse said. The state will pay 75 percent of the project's cost.

Though MESD still will not be treating sewage when the project is done, the district will continue billing customers. Greathouse said MESD still owes about $1.3 million on bond issues for the Lansdowne plant and the district will bill customers for the bonds as well as treatment rates, which will be determined by the Granite City plant, Greathouse said.

He said 18 years are left to pay on the loan. The bonds were issued in 1965.

Greathouse said sewer bills for former Lansdowne customers are likely to be higher than for customers who are already on the Granite City system.

The engineering and design firm of Hurst-Rosche Engineers Inc. and Horner & Shirin Inc. are the main contractors for the project.

Illinois EPA must approve all major steps of the project, including contractors picked for the work.

Village off hook for GO bonds

Rea isn't against expansion or growth in the community, he said.

Even Stan Lucas knows that. "If you make a nice area out there, other things will follow. I think we should help him do this, as long as it does not jeopardize the village."

Rea and Trustee Loren Madison vigorously opposed the village being asked to issue $3,384,000 in insured General Obligation Bonds to buy land and complete the infrastructure work on the land prior to development.

The two trustees stated their objections at the Aug. 28 meeting. The session was continued from the board's regular meeting Aug. 25.

The sale and interest payments on bonds, land purchase and hiring a "clerk of the works" to oversee the development were major concerns cited by Madison and Rea.

Construction at the Chouteau Trace, which would include a bank, multi-family housing, duplexes, a nursing home, a residence for the developmentally disabled and a shopping area.

Trivia

Two presidential hopefuls made stops in Granite City in 1908.

Eugene Delaney of the Socialist Party made a campaign appearance on Oct. 4 and Democrat William Jennings Bryan appeared on Oct. 19.

Madison County Associate Judge Charles Roman Jr. on Aug. 31 sentenced Steven Hoffstetter, 28, to three natural, concurrent life prison terms for the slaying of three people in 1985. Two of them were former Granite City residents.

Hoffstetter's attorney, Michael Bilbrey, said he questioned the constitutionality of a mandatory life sentence based on a defendant's accountability for the action of others.

Also of Alton, were charged in connection with the robbery and slayings of Della Riggins, 20, Kevin and Christopher Shrom, 26. Riggins and Burch were former Granite Citizens.

Their bodies were found at 5:45 a.m. Oct. 7, 1985, in the ruins of a farmhouse on Smith Road, northwest of Edwardsville. Each of the victims had been shot.

County nixes waste site

EDWARDSVILLE — Madison County is not interested in having a low-level radioactive waste disposal site.

That's the message the Madison County Board's environmental control committee will recommend to be sent to the state Department of Nuclear Safety, in charge of establishing such a facility by 1995.

Project being challenged

PATTON BEACH — Two trustees remain critical of the proposed Chouteau Trace I project, but developer Stan Lucas said the project would mean more money for the village without obligating taxpayers.

Trustees Loren Madison and Don Rea oppose the plan because they are concerned about the sale and interest payments on bonds, land purchasing, and the cost of a "clerk of the works" who would oversee the development.

The Village Board is being asked to issue $3,384,000 in insured General Obligation Bonds to buy land and a water line, and to develop and infrastructure work, Lucas said.

Construction proposed at the intersection of Interstates 255 and 270 includes apartments for the elderly, Omni Park, multi-family apartments, duplexes and possibly a hotel, shopping center or car dealership.

Metro may order layoffs

GRANITE CITY — Layoffs at the Metro East Sanitary District could mean a week, said MESD director Shang Greathouse.

Greathouse said Friday that, because of late tax payments combined with repair bills for MESD's East St. Louis pumping station, the temporary layoff of about 30 out of 65 employees may be necessary.

Greathouse said the district has not yet been fully reimbursed for costs associated with repairs that were needed because of flooding last year. The flooding occurred due to a broken pumping station gate.

Sentencing questioned

EDWARDSVILLE — A Granite City attorney for an Alton man sentenced to life in prison for three murders said he may challenge the constitutionality of the sentencing law.

increased 17 percent from June 1983 to June 1987. This compares to an overall employment gain of 10 percent of all occupations in the St. Louis region during the same period. The recovery of manufacturing and the increase in imports have helped bring about the rise of trucking employment here, the RCGA said. Jack Staley, regional manager of Yellow Freight's trucking division and a member of the RCGA Surface Transportation Committee, said trucking here has many advantages, including geographic location, the availability of equipment and a large labor pool. He said the industry's labor-management relationship has improved considerably in recent years.

Cuts may affect mentally ill

Many mentally ill Madison County residents may be forced back into institutions or onto the streets as a result of proposed state budget cuts, said the executive director of a clinic in the county.

"What will happen for us is that we will have to eliminate two staff positions," said Terry Peek, executive director of the Community Counseling Center in Alton.

The center serves 2,000 clients, many of them mentally ill.

"We have already taken steps to stretch our staff further," said Peek. "What suffers is the care given mentally ill residents while they try to live in the community."

"It's going to have a major impact on us, I'm afraid," said Peek.

"It means clients living at home, and perhaps getting sicker in the process, or just not getting the services they need."

The center in its area represents the "front lines" in treatment of the mentally ill. Its $2.5 million budget is 70 percent funded by the state.

Peek said cutting the budget for the center represents a false economy, since lack of care in a community forces the mentally ill back into state institutions where care is more expensive.

Scholarship renewals needed early

Students who plan to renew their Illinois State Scholarship Commission awards or apply for them for the first time are being urged to do so immediately.

Due to budget cuts, the deadline for processing applications may be moved up to an earlier date than originally announced. The previous deadline for new students was Oct. 1.

Students waiting too long to apply may find ISSC funds exhausted, said John Jennetten, director of the STATE Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance.

Applications for financial assistance are available in Jennetten's office on the second floor of the Rendleman Building.

Long labor history in Metro East

Regional Roundup

By Bill Winter

Labor Day has a variety of meanings, particularly in the Granite City area, which played a central role in the formation of the union movement.

Throughout Metro East on Labor Day 1987, there were family outings. Many people participated in or watched traditional parades by industrial, service and craft unions.

Television offered glimpses of the parades and also the annual Jerry Lewis telethon that raised funds to fight muscular dystrophy and other muscular ailments.

Opavah Winfrey's Labor Day talk program on TV featured U.S. Sen. Paul Simon of Illinois discussing his legislative proposal to provide jobs for all. My mother-in-law, attending a holiday family reunion in Iowa, spoke to the senior, presidential candidate, while she was campaigning in that state Saturday evening.

My late father was a steelworkers' local secretary-treasurer at the National Lead Co. here for a number of years, including the early days when the United Steelworkers were known as the Steel Workers Organizing Committee (SWOC).

I'm not a fan of the Jimmy Hoffa type of unionism or the bullying that went on in some Metro East locals, but everyone surely recognizes the positive impact of organized labor, aided in some but not all cases by enlightened management. Reduced hours of work, better working conditions and increased pay and benefits were needed and were achieved.

My late mother worked in a factory as a young child to help support her sisters; children and adults once worked brutally long shifts, seven days a week. Her brother, also now deceased, lived through tough times at an industry where bargaining rights were won the hard way.

Such thoughts are prompted by the annual Labor Day observance but, of course, labor history goes back a lot farther than confrontations in Granite City and Pittsfield in the first several decades of this century.

The Bible says that "in the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread," and I've found there has always been a link between working up a sweat and earning bread for the dinner table. Of course, my working years go back to the pre-air-conditioning era.

One of the worries facing labor and management in this area in 1987 is the continuing lack of orders for new railroad freight cars. The lack of car purchases has kept American Steel Industries, part of AMSTED Industries, from operating its big and efficient plant in Granite City. Specializing in making several parts used in assembling freight cars, the local ASF plant had virtually cornered the world market, but railway mergers and borrowing restrictions killed the demand almost overnight.

The American Steel buildings have been kept in good shape and a nucleus of key personnel remains on duty. But the years have taken a toll. Former Alderman Rich Fry, one of my Army buddies, kept busy commuting between American Steel duties in Granite City and Chicago during the past several years, until passing away suddenly.

An August announcement in Omaha captured our attention because it told of the Union Pacific Railroad placing a $110 million order for 100 new diesel-electric locomotives.

It won't help in Granite City because 75 will be built by General Electric at Erie, Pa., and 25 will be constructed by General Motors at LaGrange, Ill.

But maybe the need for new freight-hauling engines will lead to decisions to expand the fleet of freight shipping cars.

In his Labor Day message on radio, President Ronald Reagan urged workers not to support legislation that would, instead, he wants them to meet worldwide competition by outdoing other nations' workers in product quality and cost.

He said, "I have always believed that, given the tools and equipment they need, and on a level playing field, American workers can outcompete and beat the pants off anybody, anywhere."

Those who believe that some additional legislation is needed say the existing "playing field" isn't level because many countries export goods to the United States won't let us sell as many goods to them.

Democrats' radio reply to the president by U.S. Rep. Augustus Hawkins, was that our effectiveness in competing in the global marketplace depends to a great extent "on the strength of our schools. While some industrial countries are almost 100 percent literate, one-third of American adults cannot read above the ninth-grade level."

Uniform and reciprocal truck inspections begin

Traffic safety advanced another step when State Police Director Jeremy D. Margolis placed a new inspection deal on a truck at a weigh station near Springfield, Ill. The deal identifies the truck as having passed inspection by state police motor carrier safety officers.

Margolis said, "The Illinois State Police have been recognized as a leader in the field of motor carrier safety for many years. That leadership role continues as Illinois now enters into a cooperative agreement with 43 other states and 10 Canadian provinces in a Commercial Vehicle Safety Alliance (CVSA)."

The alliance has been formed to bring about an overall improvement in commercial vehicle and hazardous materials transportation safety.

"Increases in the number of commercial vehicles being operated on the nation's highways has created a more pronounced awareness and concern by transportation officials to increase safer operation of commercial vehicles.

"Individual attempts to bring about highway safety through vehicle inspections by state, provincial and federal agencies have not always been successful."

"Minimal resources and dissimilar inspection efforts between agencies has often resulted in varied safety emphasis between jurisdictions."

Repairmen do high-tech work at Bell

A computerized "CAT" is fast earning a reputation in the Metro East area as an Illinois Bell repair technician's best friend.

CAT, a registered trademark which stands for Craft Access Terminal, is a hand-held computer that puts all the information the technicians need to respond to customer trouble reports, right at their fingertips.

With CAT, the technician types in a code for each request or question and within seconds the answer is displayed on the terminal's screen.

Getting the information for themselves via computer eliminates most of the need for calls between technicians and central dispatchers as the technicians go about their daily routine of responding to repair calls, ordering line tests and closing cases.

"CAT enables the technicians in the field to do more work on their own," said Mary McCormick, Illinois Bell community relations manager. "They are their own dispatcher in most cases."

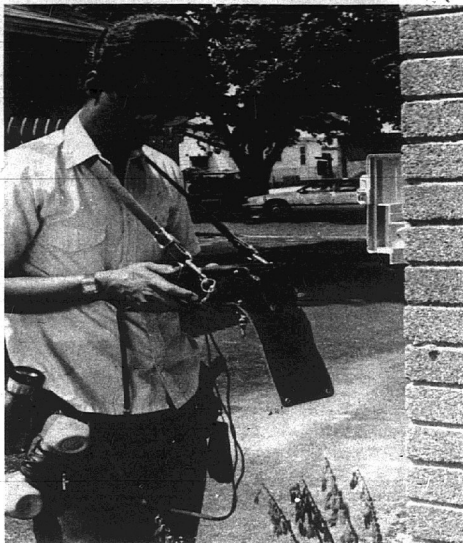

Because there are many more technicians in the field than there are dispatchers in the office, the system of using conventional voice communications often caused delays in closing and receiving an assignment.

Illinois Bell expects that CAT will eventually allow a technician to be able to clear at least one more repair case per day.

CAT was first tested by 16 technicians working out of the company's Lake Villa Installation and Maintenance Center.

"I see it as a marriage of the computer and the worker," McCormick said. "It brings the computer age to the workers' job, but once the computer has helped them get an assignment, it still takes people to go out to the site and do the work."

"The technician has to confirm the trouble source and fix it. I'd say CAT is a good complement to their normal outside activity."

ILLINOIS BELL repair technician uses a handy computer, nicknamed CAT for Craft Access Terminal, when responding to a repair call. CAT puts all the information the technician needs for the repair call at his fingertips.

As of August, about half of Illinois Bell's 2,100 repair technicians around the state were using the portable computer. CAT is already being used in the 618 calling area.

Living Every Day

by Bob Thomas, President
Thomas Mortuaries
Tradition — Dignity — Support

THERE'S ALWAYS ROOM FOR IMPROVEMENT

Surely no one doubts the fact that we live in a world of first impression. To get us to buy on sight everything we see in the store is packaged to look better than it really is. In many cases the packaging costs more than the product it surrounds.

Our society has made first impression, that of products and people, very important. This means that you are judged, initially at least, by how you look rather than what you are.

Don't we, ourselves judge people by first impressions?

Don't you immediately form an opinion about someone by their appearance to you?

Rightly or wrongly, just as we judge people based on first impressions, people judge us the same way.

Perhaps more importantly, we also judge ourselves by appearance. Sure we seem to look through different eyes and into different mirrors when we view ourselves, but there's a lot that we can't help seeing.

If our hair or face doesn't look as we would like it to, we can't help but feeling less than totally pleased with ourselves.

When we are not totally pleased with ourselves we really don't feel confident in meeting and dealing with other people.

Those times when you looked in the mirror and felt that you looked great, didn't you feel more confident about yourself and your ability to deal with the world? Didn't you feel a great deal of pride in your appearance and in yourself?

Because first impressions mean so much, no matter how much care we take in our appearance, there is always some room for improvement.

Why not let experts give you some tips on how to improve your general appearance thereby improving that first impression that you make on people.

A personal appearance improvement program, "Taking Care of Yourself ... for You," will be presented on Monday evening, Sept. 21 from 7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. by Walk On, one of the Living Every Day Programs presented by Thomas Ltd., and will be open to the public at no charge.

Linda Roder, owner operator of Merle Norman and Janet Simpson, her manager will demonstrate how to achieve and maintain a simple, polished, natural look through the use of cosmetics. Helen and John Cockrum, owners of the Academy of Beauty Culture and their assistant Melinda Jacobson will demonstrate how important your hair style is to your face and total look.

Everyone is invited to attend this program which will be held at the Nameoki Presbyterian Church, 1700 Pontoon Road. While there is not a charge, seating is limited. If you want to attend you must call Thomas Mortuaries at 876-4321 by Sept. 18 to make reservations.

Why not join us on the 21st and use this session to start feeling better about yourself. When you feel better about yourself you will truly start to "Live Every Day."

TV stations plot changes for upcoming fall season

By William Scott Simon
Journal correspondent

Armed with the July audience measurement figures compiled by A.C. Nielsen and Arbitron, St. Louis television executives have announced program schedules that will affect each station's success or failure for the 1987-88 season.

KSDK-TV (Channel 5), with a 31 overall July share from Nielsen, has the largest share of any NBC affiliate in the nation's top 20 television markets. St. Louis is ranked as the 18th largest market.

On Monday, KSDK moved the highly rated soap opera "Days of Our Lives" from 12:30 p.m. to 3 p.m., replacing "Hour Magazine," which was moved to 10 a.m. The "Sally Jesse Raphael" show was moved from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., following the highly ranked "Channel 4 News at Noon." KSDK added the NBC soap opera "Santa Barbara" at 2 p.m.

Second place KMOV-TV (Channel 4) countered by moving the very popular "Oprah Winfrey Show" from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., beginning Sept. 14. "Divorce Court" and "The Judge" will be moved from its 3 to 4 p.m. slot into the 4 to 5 o'clock hour, replacing "Magnum P.I.," which rated only a 21 share in July according to Nielsen.

There will be a battle for the third place. KTVI-TV (Channel 2) ranked only two share points ahead of independent KPLR-TV (Channel 11), according to the July Nielsen poll, and just one ahead in the Arbitron rating.

KTVI will revamp its mid-afternoon schedule Sept. 21, replacing four sagging sitcoms with two new talk shows. "The Wil Shriner Show" will be shown at 3 p.m., followed at 4 p.m. by "Gerald," featuring Gerald Rivera.

The "Shriner" program will be similar to Johnny Carson's "Tonight Show," while Rivera will feature a news-oriented format — station executives hope the show will provide a bigger lead-in audience to his news shows from 5 to 6:30 p.m.

KPLR announced that syndicated reruns of the popular NBC sitcom "Cheers" will be aired at 10 p.m., Monday through Saturday beginning Sept. 21 against the newscasts of the three network affiliates. The station hopes to attract viewers who don't want to watch the news.

A strategy that worked in Chicago eight years ago when an independent station airing the first syndicated reruns of "M*A*S*H" saw its audience share figures jump 30 percent.

Also beginning Sept. 21 on KPLR, "Family Ties" will be shown at 6 p.m. Monday through Friday, and at 5:30 p.m. on Saturday.

KDNL-TV (Channel 30) hopes to strengthen itself Sept. 21 by moving "Leave It to Beaver" up a half-hour to 10:30 p.m. "I Love Lucy" moves to 11 p.m., while Fox Network's "The Late Show" moves from 10 p.m. to 11:30 p.m. Newcomers "Webster" and "The A-Team" will be shown between 5 and 7 p.m.

These are just some of the many additions and changes being made with more information on the way in the next couple of weeks.

At stake will be millions of advertising dollars, which will produce larger or smaller profits — in some cases causing a station to lose money.

Good and the bad: KSDK has the No. 1 newscast in St. Louis. Emphasis on the news and strong promotion led them to the top spot, but self-promotion in a news story aired two weeks ago was in bad taste.

A story on high bacteria levels in soft ice cream was reported by Huei Perkins during the station's noon, 5, 6, and 10 p.m. newscasts. Perkins reported that several St. Louis city restaurants selling soft ice cream failed inspections after the city's health department followed up an inquiry by the station, and reported some of those establishments had not been inspected for a number of years.

But Perkins broadcast that the inspections were made "at the urging of Channel 5," and the term "exclusive" was used at least three times, by Perkins, and in station graphics.

Worst of all, during the day's noon newscast, the final part of the report showed a city health commissioner telling Perkins, "We want to thank Channel 5 for bringing this to our attention." The cut was deleted from the story, used in later newscasts, but was used later as a station news promotion.

The word "urging" is sensational — a more professional lead for the story could have been, "Channel 5 news asked the city health department if inspections had been performed during the recent hot weather for high levels of bacteria in ice cream." One mention of the story's exclusive nature would have been sufficient to alert the viewer of its importance.

Stallings Enters Second Year As Big Red Tackle Cowboys

By Dan Caesar
Journal Staff Writer

Phase II of the Stallings Plan kicks into high gear Sunday when the Cardinals open their National Football League season with a noon game at Busch Stadium against the Dallas Cowboys.

Big Red coach Gene Stallings begins his second year at the helm as he tries to turn things around from a dismal 4-11-1 season in 1986. But a new attitude, kindled in part by some new-found offensive spark, has many of the players talking with at least cautious optimism.

"I know it's early, and I don't want to sound like I'm getting carried away, but our goal is to make the playoffs and I really think we have a shot at doing it," linebacker E.J. Junior said. "This team is more relaxed, more ready to go and more confident than last year. I really think we can accomplish a lot this year."

Last year Stallings ran the players through a strenuous preseason regiment, which was closer to a Marine boot camp than a football training camp. But he kicked back a bit this summer. Stallings gave the players a bit of leeway and they responded by winning half of their four exhibition games.

"I've learned some things about coaching, about running this team," Stallings said. "We made a lot of progress in camp, and I'm anxious for the season to start."

So is quarterback Neil Lomax, who is coming off a frustrating and unproductive season.

But Lomax was reborn as a quarterback this summer. He completed 46-of-68 passes during the four exhibition games, a fiery 66 percent average. And that would have been even higher had it not been for nearly a dozen catchable balls that receivers dropped.

He also renewed his relationship with Roy Green, connecting with the speedy wide receiver for three touchdown passes. Green was injured much of last season, and his playing time and effectiveness were reduced. Green will be paired at receiver with J.T. Smith, whose 80 receptions last year set a club record.

"If I've got the guys out there to throw to, it makes all the difference in the world," Lomax said.

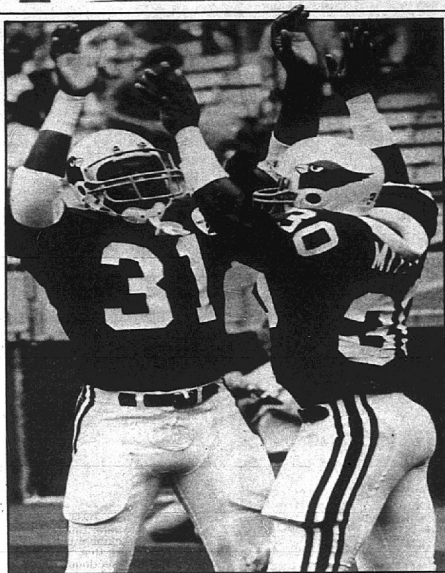

Another significant development during camp was that the Cardinals discovered that tight ends can do more than block. Last season, Big Red tight ends caught just 26 passes. But in exhibition contests this summer, they made 16 receptions. Jay Novacek, the heir apparent to the spot opened when the Cardinals dumped Doug Marsh during the offseason, led the way with seven catches.

"Now, I'm confident in the tight ends," Lomax said. "That adds a whole new element to our offense. That's very important."

And Lomax, who was involved in a swirl of off-season controversy when he refused to move to St. Louis to work out with the team, said he has taken a new approach.

"I'm just going to go out there and perform," he said. "I'm going to keep everything in perspective. I won't try to be a hero, just do my job."

But everything surrounding the team is far from positive. The preseason kicking game was downright awful, leading to Tuesday's release of place-kicker John Lee, a second round draft choice in 1986. The Big Red picked up Jim Gallery on waivers from New England to replace Lee.

Running backs Earl Ferrell, left, and Stump Mitchell will be a solid one-two punch in the '87 Big Red backfield.

Punter Greg Cater, whose 37.2 yard average was last in the NFC last season, won the job nearly by default. Challenger John Bruno averaged just 36.3 yards in 12 kicks in exhibition games.

"I'm not sold on our punting, and our kicking game just isn't very good," Stallings said. "It's an area that needs vast improvement."

The Cardinals also are glaringly lacking in depth. Nine rookies made the 45-man roster. And Stallings was upset with the defense in Sunday's game, as the Chiefs churned out 413 yards total offense.

"We're not making the plays on defense that we have to," he said. "But, all in all, it was a good preseason. We made progress. This team is looking more and more like a football team."

White, Illinois Look To Rebound

By Jim Woodcock
Journal Staff Writer

The University of Illinois and Arizona State University will meet Saturday in what will be the second game of 1987 for each team, but the circumstances surrounding the Sun Devils' previous game this year may go a long way in figuring out to expect from the contest.

The Sun Devils, who visit Champaign for a 6 p.m. game, last played on Jan. 1. The site was Pasadena, Calif., where Arizona State beat Michigan 22-17 in the Rose Bowl. The victory continued the Pac 10's dominance over the Big 10 in the annual post-season showcase.

The Illini, meanwhile, are still smarting from a stinging 34-14 defeat in their season opener last week at North Carolina. Illinois will get no reprieve on Saturday against an Arizona State team that lost only 17 lettermen from last season's 10-1-1 team.

Arizona State, which was mentioned frequently this summer in an array of preseason polls and Top 20 forecasts, is returning 37 lettermen and 11 key starters. Monday evening's 27-13 win by Michigan State over Pac 10 contender USC should provide Arizona State with plenty of incentive to even the score this season between the two conferences.

For now, however, Illinois is concentrating on Illinois. Coach Mike White knows his team is better off correcting last Saturday's game that turned an initial 30 minutes of good football into a romp for the host Tar Heels.

White said after the loss to the Tar Heels, who led only 10-7 at intermission, that the Illini's performance was one of the worst efforts "in any game I can remember the last four or five years."

"I don't feel there was that much difference in those two football teams out there. And don't get me wrong, that's not to take anything away from North Carolina. North Carolina is a good football team."

"We need to make some changes and hope this thing gets turned around, at least attitude-wise. Needless to say, I was bitterly disappointed."

Despite allowing 21 points in the third quarter, the Illini defense earned praise from White for allowing the Tar Heels only 12 first downs in the afternoon. The Illini defense will face an Arizona State team that averaged 31.5 points per game last season, so a comparable effort this week would enhance the Illini's goal to avoid becoming the first White-coached Illinois team to lose its first two games.

"We're a good defensive team," White said. "Twelve first downs in a game... anytime you hold a team to 12 first downs in a game, you're playing good defense. And I tell you, the ball pretty well. The offensive line can contribute to a good running game."

Special teams, on the other hand, raised White's ire, as did the general performance of sophomore quarterback and Haskell West graduate Brian McKenzie. He threw two critical interceptions prior to completing four of five passes en route to a late Illini touchdown.

White indicated McKenzie, who completed 10 of 24 passes for 96 yards, will start again on Saturday, though White said No. 2 quarterback Scott Mohr may see more action this week than he did in his reserve role against the Tar Heels.

Missouri running back Darrell Wallace will be a main cog in the Tigers new flex-bone offense.

Tigers Hope Baylor's Veer Bearable

By Jim Baer
Journal Staff Writer

Rome burned while Nero fiddled. That's hardly the case for Missouri football coach Woody Widenhofer. He's been plotting and planning, scratching for a way to defeat Baylor Saturday (kickoff at 1:30 p.m. at Faurot Field).

But Widenhofer has been squirming in the captain's chair as of late.

Baylor opened its 86th season with a not-so-dazzling 13-3 win over Louisiana Tech last Saturday.

The pilot light is on in Columbia, and the time has come to turn up the flame.

Widenhofer's main concern is that the Baylor Bears have a game under its belt. But the Bears, who have gone 18-4 over the past two seasons and are winners of their last two bowl games, may be as green as the uniforms they wear.

Baylor returns just six starters—four on offense and two on defense. Graduation wiped out most of the offensive line, the entire linebacking corp and defensive secondary.

That's not to say Coach Grant Teaff doesn't have a deep program, with several players being redshirted this year.

Teaff is in his 16th season at Baylor (91-76-5). Only Michigan's Bo Schembechler and Penn State's Joe Paterno have logged more years as a head coach.

Teaff has a warm spot in his heart for Missouri. Sixteen years ago he gained his first coaching victory at Baylor by downing the Tigers 27-0. Now he's wary of Missouri's overall team speed.

"The Tigers defense has as much overall speed as I've seen in 16 years," Teaff said.

"They have tremendous speed in their secondary with Erik McMillan and Adrian Jones. I'm not going to give up right now on our team if we don't beat Missouri, but I know they are a formidable opponent."

Because of a prior agreement, the teams did not trade film. The only look the Tigers had was through the eyes of Tim Hillings, newly named Missouri assistant coach who scouted Baylor's opener. Teaff said this is all to Missouri's advantage.

"We're not going to scout our opponent," he said. "They feature new offensive and defensive formations and we know very little about them."

In contrast, Missouri coaches are concerned because Baylor runs a veer offense with split backs, a look they never see with Big Eight opponents.

"We come up against the 1 (formation) and the wishbone," said Tigers line coach Steve Miller, a native St. Louisan. "We think Baylor will be a well-coached team with athletes who can run well, but inexperience could be their weakness."

The early line on the game has Baylor as a seven-point favorite.

"Defensively, they play a 4-3 just like the rest of the Texas teams," Miller said.

The Tigers offense will feature experienced backs behind a very inexperienced, and somewhat injury-riddled line.

Senior tackle Phil Schreiber has an ankle sprain while sophomore tackle Andy Lock has a sore shoulder.

With All-American John Clay having been drafted by the Los Angeles Raiders, this is how the new line stacks up: left guard Jeff Riggins, senior; center Louie, left tackle junior Carl Box, St. Charles; center Curtis Wilson, junior; Ponce City, Okla.; right tackle either Schreiber, Lock or Jay Greenwood, sophomore; Sikeston, and right guard Chris Lowe, junior, Sikeston.

Miller will have a couple of mammoth redshirt freshmen on the bench: Nick Trumbull, 281 pounds from Parkway Central and Rob Dryden, 320 pounds from St. Charles. The backup center is Peter Scott, a 257-pound sophomore from Decatur, Ill.

"We've got a good bunch of kids," Miller said. "We're unrolling a new offense and we're hopeful of a victory. If we follow our game plan, avoid a lot of mistakes and do the things we're capable of doing, we could beat Baylor."

Off the field, ticket sales in Columbia are down, coming off previous seasons of 1-10 and 3-4.

This year, however, none of Missouri's home games are scheduled to be televised and will start at 1:30 p.m. Saturdays.

The fans were apparently firing of having breakfast with the Tigers at 11 a.m. kickoffs.

FALL FASHION...

the long & short of it

By Lucyann Boston
Journal Correspondent

All you have to do to know there are more wardrobe choices for fall than Calvin Klein has jeans is saunter through the nearest shopping mall.

You'll find skirt lengths ranging from almost indecent to Little House on the Prairie style and rugged denim rubbing seams with high-toned satin and lace. America's leading fashion designers are telling you everything's cool and you can be in style if you treat wardrobe shopping like a Whitman's Sampler.

That's the kind of fashion news that 30 years ago would have caused a well-dressed woman to consider suing Vogue magazine for false advertising. Rules were rules in those days and if the world's top designers agreed that skirts should be hemmed a discrete three inches below the knee, every woman in America got out her ruler and her needle and thread.

Not any more, though. In a split decision, the world's top fashion designers are proclaiming short skirts the newest trend but no one is counting out the longer skirt as a staple in a woman's wardrobe. And designers are even hedging their bets by sending some long skirts down the fashion runways along with the shorter ones.

As boring as it's beginning to sound, "options" is the word that comes up most often when the experts talk fall fashion for 1987.

Above

Skirt lengths go short in this Liz Claiborne dress, $100, from Dillard's and long in this Jones New York hand-knit sweater, $75, and easy skirt, $95, from Famous-Barr Co.

Right

Offering a chic alternative to skirts are soft pants, $80, and a flowered, waist-length sweater, $102, worn with a satin-like shirt, $56, all from J.H. Collectibles and available at Dillard's.

Far Right

For men...

a classic, but brighter look

By Lucyann Boston
Journal Correspondent

Calling them peacocks will be too extreme.

But there's no question that men will be sharpening their fashion image this fall. Even the most conservative legal eagles may find themselves gazing admiringly at such previously trendy items as double-breasted jackets, pleated trousers and jewel-toned pocket squares.

The dominant trend as Chip Tolbert, fashion director of the Men's Fashion Association of America, sees it, is "a return to the classics, revived and renewed with color."

Translated that means you're going to be seeing lots of such traditional items as corduroy sport coats, only this year they're likely to be in such colors as purple, kelly green and scarlet rather than tan.

You're also going to see a loosening up of the entire men's silhouette. Shirts and pants will be more ample and jackets will tend toward slightly broader shoulders before they taper toward the waist.

Here's an item by item wardrobe rundown on some of the newer items men are going to come across when they shop for fall.

Color, elegance and an easy, slightly over-sized fit characterize much of men's fall fashion. This classic, crew-neck sweater, updated with Ralph Lauren's Polo crest, $115, worn with pleated cotton pants, $52.50, and a traditional oxford cloth shirt, $42.50, is all from Famous-Barr Co.

Suits—The single breasted model with a natural shoulder continues to be at the forefront of suit silhouettes. But that suit will look slightly different due to a lower notch on the lapel and a deeper gorge. The peaked lapel from double-breasted models is now a feature on single-breasted suits for an international feeling that blends British and Italian styling.

Three button models—which haven't been around since the Ivy League days—continue to make inroads. But they are meant to be worn without the top button fastened. Lapels are pressed to fall open at the second button.

Double-breasted jackets are becoming more and more accepted with each season. This fall, for instance, that bastion of middle-of-the-road men's fashion Hart Schaffner & Marx has begun producing suits with double-breasted jackets.

In fashion forward suits, you'll be seeing more and more jackets with additional padding at the shoulders. Those slightly broader shoulders will need slightly wider lapels to balance everything out.

Suit fabrics will include all the traditions with weaves in various shades of gray leading the way. But among the varying tones of gray, even the most conservative suitings will have unexpected flecks of color.

Sport Coats—Basket weaves and plaid patterns will be in the forefront of sport coat fashion. And the infusion of color in menswear means you can expect to see a wide variety of colors in those plaids and weaves.

It's in the sport coat category that you'll be seeing

Men

Men this fall
all those bright colored cordroys.

You'll also see more relaxation in the menswear silhouette. Men who are interested in wearing the latest style can slip on a jacket made from a knit fabric and there will be more interest in semi-constructed jackets with half linings and in shirt-style jackets.

Don't expect to see any reduction in price for those semi-constructed jackets. According to men's fashion experts, it's more expensive to make a jacket with half a lining than with a whole one.

Trousers — Pants this season will have a softer drape and a fuller silhouette. Double-pleated pants have now become part of mainstream menswear. Sears, for instance, will be cutting trousers that measure 22 inches at the knee and 18 inches at the ankle.
Fashion forward men can choose from single inverted pleats, box pleats or trousers with a high, Hollywood waistband and may find themselves stepping out in pants that are 24-inches wide at the knee and taper to 17-inches at the ankle.

Top coats — The overcoat really becomes a fashion item this season. They are full and long and have the kind of swagger that can make any man look as if he deserves a role in a British spy movie. Colors tend to be dark and fabrics luxurious.

Dress shirts — Shirt silhouettes are loosening up, which is what you might expect when the fit of jackets eases up. That can't be bad news for men who have found their thickening middle and a tapered shirt are no longer compatible.

Those fuller shirts will come in a multitude of colors and a wide variety of stripes.

Sport shirts — You can still paint the town with plaids. But you'll also see a lot of interest in the long-sleeved, knit, polo shirt in bright colors. Just as with dress shirts, these sport shirts should have a loose, easy, over-sized fit.

Ties — Teal and red are the power colors when it comes to striped ties. Paisleys and oversized medallions are the important patterns. With the widening dimensions of jacket lapels and fuller shirts, watch for ties to get a bit wider, too.

Accessories — The use of suspender and silk pocket squares is becoming an accepted way for men to add individual style to their business wardrobe. Pocket squares should coordinate with, but not match, ties. Because they don't often show, suspenders can get as wild and colorful as a man dances.

Crests, embroidered into the fabric of shirts, sweaters and even jackets, is another of the touches that make clothes distinctive for fall.

Should your family not be so endowed and your yacht club or polo association be temporarily out of business, don't worry.
Designers and manufacturers can supply you with their own crest which in most cases they've already embroidered into the garment fabric.

Sweaters — When a man bundles up in a sweater this fall, he should picture himself as a cross between Paul Bunyan and Paul Hogan. To be in style he'll want something big enough to fit Bunyan. And the look of the sweater should be rugged enough that Hogan, as Crocodile Dundee, might pull throw it in his duffel for one of his journeys from the outback to New York.

Leisurewear — Grab your sunglasses. The clothes men put on when they're dressing down rather than dressing up will feature every bright color imaginable. To make more of an impact, bright colors are being layered one over the other.

Fleece continues to be an all important fabric.

•Fall

Fall fashion for women

The key for a woman who wants to look well-dressed will be to know which of those options work well together so she looks well put together instead of like a wrong turn at the rummage sale.

In the interests of organization, here's an item-by-item wardrobe guide to getting dressed for fall (and you thought you had it all mastered when you've learned to tie your shoes in kindergarten).

•Skirts — The answer here is not to do anything half way, lest you risk simply looking dumb. Sort of like the little girl with the curl: if you go long, you go very, very long and if you go short you go knee-length.

Anything from just below mid-calf to just above the ankle will keep you looking chic, and so will a length that flirts with your knee from its middle to an inch or so above its top. Your hemline should appear to be purposeful, not an accident.

It may be the passing of the seasons that skirt lengths will be a compromise between the long and the short of it. But right now one extreme or the other seems to be the safest course if you want to appear in the know.

Needless to say, long skirts should be full and graceful through the use of gathers, gores, pleats and the like. Short ones also should have some ease (to enable you to sit down without causing your grandmother to get the vapors).

While there were a few avant-garde designers pushing what used to be called the "micro mini," unless you're in and have great legs, you probably don't want to be the first to get one.

One important note is that designers consider the skirt worn with the skirt as all important to achieve the right look. Short skirts get high heels and opaque hose that match either the shoe or the skirt — or both if possible. Long skirts are generally shown with low heels.

•Jackets — Just as with skirts the biggest jacket news is coming in the form of either very long or very short.

With short skirts, most designers are touting the longer, hip-length jacket, which often is cut with a decided inward curve at the waistline. Looser fitting, long jackets are often belted to give them form.

On the other extreme, the second chic shape is the bolero, the Eisenhower or whatever other label you can think for a jacket that ends at the waist. You'll most often see the short jacket used with long skirts or pants. And you'll often see it quilted.

Some designers use short with short but it can lead to a skimpy look if it's not done right. Also watch out for combining long jackets and long skirts. It's generally a hard look to carry off unless you're 6-foot tall.

Padded shoulders, by the way, are still in vogue, although not quite as extreme as they were a year or so ago.

•Pants — Experts are predicting a lot of interest in pants among those who don't know what length to wear their skirts. You'll basically have your choice of full and pleated or knit and skinny styles. Fuller trousers are generally being made up in soft fabrics such as jersey. And you're going to see some high waisted styles.

Trend-setting Donna Karan has infused her knit pants with some stretch yarn and has come up with a style that resembles the stretch ski pants of the mid-1960s.

Since designers are so preoccupied with the lengths of skirts, they have generally left pant hemlines alone. The classic ankle to top of the arch length will do nicely. Especially for late day, watch for the return of the really full palazzo pant.

•Sweaters — There are no surprises here. Big sweaters with padded shoulders are still a top fashion item. As with jackets, you'll see them longer this season, often extending well past the hips and they are often shown belted. The trend toward turtlenecks which began last year is continuing. Cardigan sweaters also are, doubling as jackets.

Patterns, thanks to computerized knitting techniques, will continue to be important. Everything from Paris street scenes to bouquets of flowers will be knit into the front and back of fall sweaters. Jersey continues to be a popular fabric. These dresses are made to be transformed in a myriad of ways through the use of accessories. Designers see them as the working girl's best friend.

Also making news are the full-from-the-shoulders, trapeze-style dresses designers such as Bill Blass are turning out and the smock-style, school girl dresses, often with collars, neck collars and cuffs, that are showing up on both sides of the Atlantic.

On the really trendy side are short dresses in stretch fabrics that hug the body in every conceivable place. No matter how skinny you are, make a mental note not to wear one of these numbers to your aunt's for Thanksgiving dinner.

•Blouses — Touches of cutwork embroidery or sensuous, satin-like fabrics give blouses a decidedly feminine feeling this season. On the flip side, the simple white shirt also is seeing lots of action.

•Coats — Fall coats are big and roomy, the kind of thing you want to nestle into. If they are full length, they are long enough to top the longest skirts and guarantee you won't freeze your knees if you're into short skirts.

Short, swingy three-quarter-length toppers also are making big fashion news. Often these coats are showing up in bright or pastel colors. Shearling jackets are another top item.

Styling details include lots of interest in wrap styles and deep, cowl-like collars that can be flipped over the head and converted into hoods.

•Evening — The choice between long and short continues for evening. And as with daytime there are a variety of options. Knee-length dresses with pouffe, satin bubble skirts are in but so are simple, form-fitting little black dresses.

Full-length dresses are generally cut close to the body and you will continue to see lots of back interest in both long and short dresses. Glittering bolero jackets are used to top a number of evening ensembles.

•Colors — Black and a variety of shades in the brown family are probably the most often seen colors this fall. But designers use those darker colors as a background for a splash of bright color. Red continues to be a hot fashion color and you'll also be seeing lots of sherbet-like pastels.

•Fabrics — Plaids are showing up all through the fashion industry. They are important in dressy daytime and evening clothes and in rugged sportswear. Denim will continue as a top selling fabric. And you'll also be seeing lots of leather. Printed or woven animal skin fabrics are also making a lot of noise.

ELEGANT, SOPHISTICATED clothes don't need to have a high price tag. This Jaclyn Smith silk-like blouse, $19.97, is paired with herringbone corduroy pants by Hunter's Glen, $19.97, and accessorized with a dramatic belt, $5, all from K-Mart.

•Accessories — In addition to those all-important high heels and opaque hose with short skirts, there are a number of other accessories that are important for fall. Scarves are back on the fashion scene. So are belts that vary from an inch to three inches in width.

Gold is once again vying with silver as a trendy metal. Often both gold and silver jewelry looks as if it had been dug up in a Roman ruin. Ethnic and American Indian styles continue to be strong.

Quick Vikings a test for 1-0 Warriors

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

The Warriors will need to pack their running shoes when they make their second road trip of the year on Saturday.

It's off to Normandy (Mo.) High School for a 1 p.m. game against the Vikings, and Warrior coach Ron Yates said the opposition will be just as tough.

"They have a couple of real good runners, and they will be pretty quick," Yates said. "We will have to be quick on defense and keep them from getting big plays."

That is the key for any defense, but especially so for the Warriors, who don't have a bunch of speedsters on defense and would appear vulnerable to the big plays.

"We want to keep the ball in their hands for a lot of plays,"

Yates said. "The more plays you make the opposition run, the better the chance of them making some kind of mistake. That's the way we have done it in the past."

After watching films of the 10-0 win at Cahokia several times, Yates and the coaching staff were fairly pleased with what they saw. But as expected, there were areas that need improvement.

"We will need better run support from our linebackers," Yates said. "But we did get some superb games defensively from Brian Dix, Ali Mohsen, Kory Burton, Kevin Sutphin and Terry Stanley."

Even though Cahokia is far from the toughest test the Warriors will have this year, a shut-out in the opener is hardly anything to sneeze at. And more than just stopping the opposition and making them punt, it helps to take the ball away, and the Warriors did that three times.

"Dix forced one fumble with a hard hit and Tom Johnson forced one on a kickoff," Yates said. "Stripping the ball away is a coachable technique and we will be stressing that more as the year goes on. Not all fumbles are caused by hard hits. You can come up behind a player and come down on the ball with your arms or punch it loose. We would like to have a team that is good at doing that."

Offensively, the Warriors are resembling Patton's infantry, according to Yates. The passing game netted no yards against the Comanches although the running attack picked up more than 150 yards.

After simplifying the attack in the second half and running more straight ahead plays, Stanley, Sutphin and Len Whiteside began to grind out the yardage.

"We were outkicked in the first half," Yates said. "It seemed like one person was letting down on every play. We were always one block away from breaking some 20-yard runs."

As for the quarterback situation, Yates said he will decide today if Chris Bartling will start again or if sophomore Joe Wallace will get the nod. Wallace was ineligible last week because of a lack of practice time, but he will be ready on Saturday.

"We have to develop at least a mediocre passing game," Yates said. "Chris just didn't throw the ball real well on Friday. But you sometimes have to throw 15-20 times in a game to get going."

Even Timmy Hogan would miss three or four times in a row early in a game. But if we can keep the ground game going, we'll be all right."

"I want to get the passing game to the point where we can throw on second and 1 or on first down. If we can get by passing four or five times on Saturday, we will do it. Then Belleville West (the home opener Sept. 18) won't know as much about us."

NOTES: The only injury of note from the Cahokia game was an ankle injury to Craig Dippel. Yates said he should be ready to go by Saturday...To get to the Normandy field, take the McKinley Bridge and go on Interstate 70 West to Lucas & Hunt Road. Go left past the Glen Echo Country Club and St. Peters Cemetery. The field will be visible just off Lucas & Hunt.

Kickers' fast start dazes Redbirds, 4-0

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — Maybe the soccer Warriors were just waiting for a conference game to put it all together.

They sure didn't waste any time when their Southwestern Conference opener against Alton began on Tuesday at the Gauntlet. The Redbirds came out a little too slow and the Warriors made them pay in a big way.

Three first-quarter goals were more than enough to pave the way to a 4-0 win for Granite City and get an early leg up in the conference race. It's a race that always seems to come down to the Warriors and Collinsville. But the Kahoks stumbled in their SWC opener on Tuesday, gaining only a 1-1 tie in two overtimes against Belleville West.

The Warriors made sure nothing like that would happen as they drove Alton keeper Eric Zyng from the nets with an early barrage. Troy Adamitis, Herb Heaton and Kurt Atkinson scored in the first 18 minutes, then Jason Sharp added the fourth tally in the second quarter.

"It was nice to see them come out fast like that," said Warrior coach Gene Baker. "But more than just seeing the goals was the type of goals they were. They were all polished plays on our part."

Both Heaton and Atkinson added assists to go with their goals, and as Baker said, none of the goals were of the garbage variety. Only 2:49 had ticked off the clock when Heaton controlled the ball on left wing side deep in Alton territory. His high pass to the slot was headed in by Adamitis for the sophomore's second goal of the year.

Heaton then took a pass from John Van Buskirk at 9:45, steamed up the middle and blasted a high shot over Zyng's hands for Granite City's goal was Heaton's second of the season.

Atkinson was next, and the senior made a nice run down the left side and ripped in another high shot at 17:34 for his second goal, which was unassisted.

The flurry left the Redbirds,

JOHN VAN BUSKIRK of the Warriors controls the ball and moves upfield against Alton.

0-2 in the conference and overall, in a daze.

Against Vandalia, 270-pound right guard Fred Strauthers and 260-pound right tackle Vincent Valentine all but nullified the Vandal trench attack on both sides of the line.

They might not have such easy pickings Saturday, Smith said.

"It's important that we stay at home on defense," he said. "If we do that we'll be OK. Columbia runs a 4-4 defense, so they'll give us some holes up front. We'll have to take advantage of whatever they give us."

Smith said the Trojan offensive strike force might be absent one missile Saturday, pending on whether halfback Ian Smith kicks a case of the flu he has been battling all week. Last week against Vandalia, Smith rushed for 116 yards on 11 carries and caught four passes for 34 yards. On defense, he picked up two interceptions.

Should Smith remain unavailable for action Saturday, the rushing duties would have to be picked up by fullback Ricky Ball and reserve backs Derrick Treadway and Craig Ingram. All three saw considerable action last Friday.

Collectively, the trio rushed 19 yards in the first half of the game. (See TROJANS, Page 2D)

The Warriors had six shots in the opening quarter while Randy Chapman faced none at the other end. The Redbirds never had as much as a sniff of the Granite City goal until it was 4-0. Sharp got the fourth tally after Atkinson made a nice move.

He moved into point-blank range at 33:08 only to have his shot deflected by Zyng. But the ball bounced toward the goal and Sharp beat an Alton defender to the ball at the goal line and hammered it in for his first of the season.

The Redbirds had a chance to get one just before halftime when Chapman couldn't cover a loose ball. O'Brien controlled behind Chapman, but his shot from a bad angle bounced off the post back into Chapman's arms.

Alton played the Warriors on even terms throughout a scoreless second half, although Granite City hardly had their front line players in the whole time.

"We're playing without Brett Broadwater and Vince Darnell," Baker said. "Broadwater has an injury and Darnell is sick. But a game like this gives us a chance to look at some of the players who normally wouldn't play as much. I liked what I saw from some of them."

"I think we have to keep what we saw in the second half in perspective," Gentelin said. "They had a lot of their reserves in, and we really had a lot of room to go up in our level of play from the first quarter. We are a team that needs to keep the other side to nil or one goal. We don't have the type of team that will get two or three goals every game."

The Warriors outshot Alton 22-4 and had four corner kicks to none for the Redbirds. Granite City committed 21 fouls to 20 for Alton, while Redbird keepers made 12 saves to five for the Warrior keepers (Matt Knoch played the second half).

Having survived probably the finest individual golfer in the area on Tuesday, the Warriors took dead aim on the area's dominant team today.

Granite City raised its season record to 5-0 with a two-stroke win over Belleville West at the Arlington Golf Course on Tuesday. They beat the Maroon despite the presence of Kevin Goalby of the famous Goalby family.

There is without a doubt the finest player in the area," said Warrior coach Russ Chappell.

Goalby came in one over par, however, on the course as Derek Tritan of Granite City took top honors on the day with a 35 (one under par).

"We were even with them going into the last hole and both Derek and Goalby were two under," Chappell said. "But we were able to get the win."

The 151 for the Warriors was just one shot over the school record. The other scorers for the Warriors were Mike McCormick (38), The Wilkinson (39) and Chad Lane (39).

Alton was to have been the third team in Tuesday's meet, but they cancelled ahead of time.

Having survived Goalby and the Maroons, the Warriors now look ahead to one of their big matches of the season today. Belleville Althoff will be at Arlington along with perennial power Edwardsville. The Tigers are 138-1 in dual meets over the past five years. (See WRAPUP, Page 2D)

Warriors, Kahoks brace for first of 2 shootouts

It will be a grudge match as usual tonight at the Football Bowl in Collinsville.

Soccer matches between the Warriors and Kahoks are never pretty sights. There is not a whole lot of good feeling flowing between the two teams, and the fact they are usually fighting not only for conference honors, but also state supremacy, adds an edge to the game.

Neither coach is exactly playing up the game as a major event. Both Gene Baker and Jim Stranz have clubs much different than the ones that faced off at SUB in the sectional finals last year. The Kahoks won 1-0 behind Tim Johnson's early goal and Collinsville went on to the state title.

"We can't afford to look past anybody to any game at this time of year," said Baker before the Warriors' game with Alton on Tuesday. "After the 4-0 win, his tune had changed, but not much."

"I always look forward to playing Collinsville," he said. "It really depends on what kind of officiating we get on that small field up there. When it's close like that, it's important how the game is called."

Stranz watched his team survive a 1-1 tie on Joe Reuter's goal in overtime after Belleville West had scored first in the extra session. That puts the Warriors a half game ahead in the early conference standings, although that means little other than for pride.

"I really haven't had time to think about the Granite game," Stranz said. "If we had lost (to Belleville West), I don't know what that would have done to our kids for Thursday. I feel we're basically confident."

The home-field advantage meant nothing last year, when the Kahoks claimed a 3-2 win at the Gauntlet before the Warriors came back on Brett Bjorkman's goal for a 1-0 win in Collinsville.

Junior varsity action is slated to begin at 5 p.m., with the varsity game set for approximately 7 p.m. The teams have a return match in Granite City on Sept. 22.

The Warriors are 2-1, 1-0 in the SWC. Collinsville is 0-4-1 in the conference and 2-2-0 overall. They gained a win and a tie in a tournament in Indiana last weekend.

Warrior spikers fall in opener

By Gary King

Correspondent

EDWARDSVILLE — What at first had all the makings of a dogfight eventually turned into a dogbite for the Warrior volleyball team in its season opener against the Edwardsville Tigers on Wednesday.

After jumping out to an early edge in the first game of the match, the Warriors stumbled and finally fell to the Tigers 15-13 and 15-9 at Joe Lucco Gymnasium.

The win raised Edwardsville's record to 5-1 on the year.

Warrior coach Don Deterding was obviously less than elated with the loss. However, he viewed it as a necessary evil.

"I think we were nervous," Deterding said.

Edwardsville had the experience coming in. They already had five games under their belt. The experience they had on us worked in their favor tonight."

The point could hardly be argued.

After Edwardsville jumped out to an early 3-3 edge in the first match, Granite City began to ever-so-gently chip at the Tiger lead.

Trojans vs. Bulldogs could be dog-eat-dog

By Gary King

Correspondent

MADISON — The Columbia Eagles take a bulldog approach to the game of football.

The Madison Trojans rely on their greyhounds.

Combine the two factors and it figures to produce a real dog-eat-dog affair Saturday night.

Momentum will certainly not be lacking when Madison and Columbia pair off in a battle of the not-yet-beaten Saturday in Columbia. And don't count on this to be one of those "defensive duel" kind of games, either.

In the season opener against Vandalia last Friday, Madison rolled up 323 yards of total offense in a 27-0 shellacking of the lowly Vandals. Columbia slid through their opener with similar ease Tuesday, as they did a 40-0 wrecking-ball job on Class 1A Olinburg.

Trojan coach Don Smith, who witnessed the Columbia lambasting, said Saturday's game could turn into a scoreboard operator's nightmare.

"They (Columbia) looked pretty tough against Olinburg," Smith said. "They've got some big guys who open up some pretty good holes."

And the Trojans have a few pretty formidable figures on their front line themselves, a fact to which Vandalia can well attest.

Against Vandalia, 270-pound right guard Fred Strauthers and 260-pound right tackle Vincent Valentine all but nullified the Vandal trench attack on both sides of the line.

They might not have such easy pickings Saturday, Smith said.

"It's important that we stay at home on defense," he said. "If we do that we'll be OK. Columbia runs a 4-4 defense, so they'll give us some holes up front. We'll have to take advantage of whatever they give us."
